

and THE RISE OF THE
BASEBALL CARD
Scavenger Hunt

The hunt is on, all season long!
You'll find the answers to these five clues in the Main Concourse of the Durham Bulls Athletic Park April 7 - September 5.

1. Nicknamed after the bags he once carried working at a train station, this player's fastball stunned fans until he was over-the-hill. Who is he?
2. King Kelly shot to stardom after he was sold to a protein-packed team for a whopping $10,000 in the 1800s. What team was he sold to?
3. This player's name may make you think of corn, but he was best known for being one of baseball's biggest rule-benders and an inaugural Hall of Famer. Who is he?
4. In 1914, a "Shoeless" player started appearing in boxes of this sticky treat:
_____.
5. In 1932, the Philadelphia Phillies began to "grow" a team that may be familiar to you. What is that team?

The answer to your final clue (along with your prize!) awaits you at the Museum of Durham History, 500 W. Main Street.

FINAL CLUE:

6. The most famous baseball card of them all, the Honus Wagner, was distributed through a factory on the corner of _____ Street and _____ Street in Durham.

Join us for a pre-game Family Day on August 13 at the Museum of Durham History.
Hang out with Wool E Bull, make your own baseball card, and more.
See www.modh.org for details.

MUSEUM of DURHAM
HISTORY

